

About PDMS

PDMS was established in 1993 to provide IT consultancy and data management expertise to a wide range of businesses. Over time, the company has evolved into a project based IT services company, offering a full range of IT related services ranging from high level business consultancy to software development, support and hosting. Changes in technology mean that the majority of our work is now based around the development and support of web oriented enterprise applications.

We focus on working with our customers on projects that meet the real objectives of their individual business, rather than selling off the shelf software products. Using our development framework Foundations TM and extensive library of components we can provide our customers with the flexibility of custom software at competitive prices.

In March 2003 PDMS were assessed by Lloyds Registered Quality Assurance and were certified to BS EN ISO 9001:2000 for their Quality Management System, which ensures that our business processes meet internationally recognised standards.
